our soil, would throng to struggle for the preservation of that government which affords a refuge to the stranger, an asylum to the oppressed, and the full enjoyment of callightened civil and religious liberty. New Lafayettes De Kalle, Stanbens, Koecluskos and Montgomerys, would pour out their best blood ere one stain should sully the bright folds of our besutiful flag. We would all then become, in feeling and in action, United Americans indeed. We have more to fear from Arnolds than from all the mercenary heests that could be gathered, if every empire of the old world were stripped of its last bauble to raise hiroling armise for our overthrow. Yet I fear sothing from them. If, when the monument you have begun to day is completed, any base American should raise bis searilegious band to mutilate it in the smallest degree, who, that knew of the set, would not resent it as a traitorous outrege? What should you do my countrymen if the destroying hand of any wretch assailed this happy Union? I have entire considence that whether he who meditates such an outrage on our national prosperity pursues bis infamous design as open flow, or lu king traitor, at the moment when he thinks his foul sobems successful he will be arrested, exposed, and gibbeted through the heroic and incurruptible effort of some new Paulding, Williams, or Van Wart.

During the delivery of the address the following genetlemen were present:—Washington Irving, Eq. ; the vonerable Captain John Romer, aced eighty three, bearing the dish out of which Paulding, Williams, and Van Wart ate their breakfasts in the fields on the morning of the septure; General Storms, Mr. Hasbrouce, James W. Serther, M. D., Amos R. Clark, Allen Newman, N. Holmes Odeli, Wm. F. Van Wart, Bela S. Squires, and an host of others.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Brady was loudly cheered.

The Rev. Mr. Sm, of Unionville, gave the benediction. When the ceremonies were ended, the Committee of Arrangements entertained a party of eighty gentlemen at dinner, at the Irving House. General Storms presided; and, after a sumptuous repast, in Wilson's best style, had ample justice done to it, the "feast of reason and the flow of scul," was enjoyed for some hours.

We have not space for the loasts given on the occasion. During his stay, our reporter learned from Captain Romer the following annecdote:—"On the morning of the capture, Paulding Williams and Van Wart went early to his (the Captain's) mother's house, who furnished them with a bresk'ast of pork and beans, in a large pewter dish, such as was then in use in the farm houses. They despatched their meal amongst the bushes by the brook, and afterwards saw and captured Andre. Upon this, John Paulding returned to Mirs Romer's and said, "Ant Polly, we have caught a great British efficer." To which that thrifty lady replied, "Oh, Johny, but where is my dish?" The now aged Captain, then a lad, was sent for the dish, which he has ever since preserved, and the relic attracted the attention of thousands on Monday, as did the original sandre papers.

The tree under which Andre was searched was struck by lightning upon the very day that the news of Armold's death reached America; and a curious coincidence was, that John Paulding, the captor, was on that day approaching Tarrytown, and on passing the shattered trunk he met his sister. Miss Paulding, coming from the village. He told her that the tree was down; she told him the news, "Benedict Arnold is dead." Mrs. Utter, whose son, a young carpenter then in the militia made the gallows on which Andre was executed, is still living in Tarrytown.

lows on which Andre was executed, is still living in Tarrytown.

The Irving house, in which the dinner was served stands upon the commanding site of the late Irving Iasti tute, near to the monument base. It is fitted up in elegant style, contains lifty beds, and is furnished and attended with great regard to comfort and regularity. It contains at present a very select party, including Mr. Zamermaan, Mr. Cotheal and sisters, the accomplished and beautiful Misses Fraul, Mr. Putsam and family, from New York, with many others.

Our reporter is indebted to its proprietor, Mr. Wilson, the Committee of Arrangements, and the residents generally, for every attention and facility for discharging his duty when in Tarrytown The Monument Association will, we think, be now aided by Americans of every State

The Celebration at Newark, N. J.

The enthusiasm was elevated to a height corresponding with the character offthe day, at Newark. As usual, immense quantities of gunpowder (were burned, and considerable intoxication prevailed. Several persons were seriously injured by the careless use of firearms; many fights took place, and in the afternoon a riot occurred in a lager bier saloon, in which some thirty men participated with knives, &c. The Advertiser, of yesterday afternoon, says that the "New Jersey railroad transported nearly twelve thousand passengers on the 4th, of whom between six and seven thousand were between Newark and New York. About the same number passed over the road on Saturday, and up to the present time the number is quite as large as on the 2d or 4th."

Boston, Erc.

Boston, July 5, 1853.

The Fourth of July was celebrated in Eastern Massachusetts with more than usual pomp and show. In this city, at the municipal dinner in Fancuil Hall, the speaking was unusually good.

Among the speakers were Hon. Biward Everett, Gen.

Lealie Coombs, of Kentucky, Gen. Sevier, of Louisisna, and others.

Mr. Everett made an ek quent reply to the toast—"The Senate; when it speaks discord and disunion hide their

Mr. Blossom, Senior, publisher of the Hingham Patriot, was in the act of loading a pistol, when a premature dis-charge took place; both his hands were blown off, and his cheek bone blown out. He now lies in a dying state. A Mr. Wheaton was also injured, but not fatally. AT BALTIMORE AND ANNAPOLIS.

BALTIMORE, July 5, 1853.
The Fourth passed off unusually quit in this city.

An excursion party went from this city to Annapolis and while there a portion of the party was attacked by Ampapolis rowdies. The party fied to the boat, when the roades kept up an indiscriminate firing of muskets, pis-tols, &c., on the boar until she got on of the way. The attack was wholly unprovoxed. Several persons, includ-ing women, were injured—one man it is believed danger-ously. No names were given.

AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5, 1853 The Fourth was celebrated here with great spirit, and immense numbers of strangers througed our silests. We hear of no accidents of importance.

The military display was large, but the number was lessened by a fall of rain early in the morning. The firework displays were very fine, and attracted immense

Yesterday afternoon the Hibernia and Carroll Hose C mpasies came in collision at the corner of Froat and Master streets, Kensington, and a riot took place. The disturbance commenced at a tarcen kept by a man named Thomas Grissam. He was subsequently arrested, and, with some dozen of the combatants, was taken before Alderman Cleuds, who held the party to bail to answer at Court. One of the adherents of the Hibernia flurished a knile in the crowd.

A serious riot took place yesterday afternoon, between the South Penn and Spring Garden Hose Commasies. The disturbance commenced at Broad street and Columbia avenue, and continued down to Twelfth and Poplar streets, where the war waged fercely for a considerable time. Clubs and brickbats were freely used, and several of the rioters were severely injured. A man named Scott, a member or adherent of the Spring Garden Hose, was very hadly out in the head. A woman named Mary Carver, who was standing at her door in Poplar street below Broad, was struck in the face by a missile and I adily hurt. Several of the Marshall's officers came upon the pround during the fight and fired their pistois for the purpose of intimidating the rioters. The shorts were penned by the South Fenn Hose party. A serious disturbance took place yesterday afternoon, in Bedford street, between Thirteenth and Broad, between a number of Irish and negroes.

In the district of Kensington, during yesterday afternoon and last evening, the most digraceful scenes were transacted. Several gangs, the members or adherents of various fire companies, engaged in violent feuda, during which pistols were fired, and stones, and other missiles. The police, under Lieutenant McAnally, were active in their exertions to suppress the riotous conduct of the belligerous and with the aid of officers from other divisions of the consciliated pelice, some fifty or gaing arreads were made. cocasion, and let them, at their parting, have a substantial proof of the estimation in which their dramatic abilities have been held, while playing at the Bonery theatre.

Broadway Thratra.—The manager of this establishment presents a programuse of great variety for this evening. Those established favorites Mr. and Mrs. B. Williams, appear in three pieces. The first is the new comedy entitled "It"s the Custom of the Country," which will introduce Mrs. Williams as McHese, with the Yankee song of "Pecky Ike" Mrs. Williams is generally admitted to be the ablest representative of Yankee female character in the States, and is every night received with enthusisatic cheers. Mr. Williams appears in "Irish Assurance" as Pat, with a song, and Mrs. Williams as Nancy. The concluding piece is the "Happy Man," Mr. Williams as Paddy Murphy, in which he will introduce Irish songs.

Ninc's Garden.—Madame Anna Thillon, who has been so much admired on a former occasion in this city, for her great consiculity and sweet singing, appears to night as Maria, in the "Daughter of the Regiment," assured by Mr. Hudson, and other eminent artists. As she is announced to have been engaged but for a limited period, those who have been so often delighted with this faccinating actress and excellent vocalist will, no doubt, crowd the theatre every night during her engagement—she appears for three nights each week, and the celebrated Ravels on alternate nights.

NATIONAL THRATRE.—Mr. Purdy still continues as indefativable as ever in catering for the amusement of the public. He offers three pieces this evening. The first is Charles II. Mr. J. R. Scott in his great character of Capt. Copp, and Mrs. W. G. Jones as Mary Copp. Miss Partington will dance. The next piece will be Pizarro in which Mr. Maddocks, from the English theatres, will make his first appearance as Rolls, Mr. Jones as Cora, and Mrs. Niccolls as Elvira. The entertainments will terminate with the drama of the Spitter.

American Musuum.—The piece selected for the performance in the sa Coroner's Inquests.

Faval Accement of the New Haves Rahadad—Death of Mr. McKinser, rest Cosporors.—Coroner Hilton yesterday held as inquest at Lovejoy's Hotel, 400 Broadway, on the body of Edward M. McKinney, aged thirty-eight years, a native of Connectiont, who came to his death by an injury received on Thursday last, while on board the New Haven cars, en rouse to this city. It appears that the deceased was the conductor of the train, and when approaching the tunnel near Harlem he locked out from the Post office car, and his head came in contact with a projecting rock, which extends within six inches of the car; the deceased was found insensible in the Pest Office car, where he had fallen isfter the injury; the deceased lingered until Sunday night, and when he died; Dr. James R. Wood who attended the deceased up to this death, found upon examination that death had been caused by a fracture of the base of the skull. The jury rendered the following verdict:—That deceased came to his death by a fracture of the akull accidentally received while in the Post Office Department of a New Haven car, on last Thursday, F. M., June 30, 1853. Further, the jury believe he received said injury by looking out of said car, and coming in contact with a projection of rock near the Harlem tunnell, said projection being but four inches clear of a passing car.
